Can I register for classes with a past due hold?

Students may not register if they have a past due hold on their account. A student's balance must be paid in full or be eligible for tuition deferment/financial aid awards in order for the hold to be lifted and to be able to register for a future term. Please note: students can have their past due hold removed if their balance is under $200, and will then be allowed to register for future classes. Be sure to contact your student advisor with any questions.
