

What happens to my financial aid if I fail my class?

Last Modified on 02/20/2026 11:05 am MST

Students “earn” their financial aid by participating in classes. If a student stops attending their classes they may owe back a portion of their “unearned” aid. If a student has attended throughout the entire scheduled term or trimester but fails their class or classes, they are still considered to have “earned” all of their financial aid for that trimester and might not owe money back to the University.

Please reach out to your Student Success Counselor and Student Finance Advisor with any questions.
