

Impact of Enrollment Status on Financial Aid

Last Modified on 03/02/2026 9:54 am MST

Impact of Enrollment Status on Financial Aid

In order to qualify for a financial aid disbursement during any specific trimester, you must be enrolled as a Half-Time or Full-Time Student. The following list shows the number of credits you will need to qualify for these statuses:

Undergraduate Students:

- Full Time: 12 credit hours per trimester
- Half Time: 6-8 credit hours per trimester
- Less than Half Time (and not eligible for student loans): Less than 6 credit hours per trimester

Graduate Students:

- Full-Time: 6 credit hours per trimester
- Half Time: 3 credit hours per trimester

Changing your enrollment status will also impact your overall Cost of Attendance (COA), which may cause an increase or decrease in the amount of available Financial Aid. To see the COA for each enrollment status, please visit the Financial Aid Policies page and scroll down to Cost of Attendance.

Students who receive all For W grades for a term or trimester will be subject to the Return to Title IV calculation. This calculation determines the amount of aid you earned during the payment period, and 50% or more of your financial aid may be required to be returned to the Department of Education. You will be required to confirm your attendance for a future term within the trimester in writing if you receive all F, WA, or W grades for a term. This applies even if you are already registered for the future term. Lack of confirmation will trigger a calculation and potentially a refund to the Department of Education.

If you have questions we encourage you to verify your enrollment status and financial aid eligibility with Student Financial Services. They may be contacted at 855-212-6700 or financialaid@csuglobal.edu.

---